

Features will end in 1 day. Renew your trial or upgrade your license to continue using these features. Learn more

Business Question 1: Which marketing channel should Super Mart invest in most to maximize revenue?

The Revenue by Marketing Channel chart shows that Instagram leads all channels in total revenue, followed closely by Email and Google. All three significantly outperform Facebook and Referral. The Customer Acquisition by Source donut further confirms that Instagram holds the largest share of customer acquisition, making it the most impactful channel for both reach and conversion. It is recommended that Super Mart prioritize Instagram and Email as primary investment channels. Google should be maintained as a strong secondary channel. Facebook and Referral are underperforming relative to their potential and would benefit from campaign restructuring or targeted incentive programs before further budget is allocated.

Business Question 2: How has Super Mart's revenue trended over the years, and what does it signal for future planning?

The Yearly Revenue Trend chart shows revenue across 2023, 2024, and 2025. Revenue was moderate in 2023, peaked in 2024, and declined noticeably in 2025. Despite this, the overall three-year total reached 1.26M with 1,200 customers and 891 coupons redeemed. The drop in 2025 is a concern and warrants investigation into whether it was driven by reduced marketing spend, increased competition, seasonal effects, or a shift in customer behavior. It is recommended that Super Mart conduct a root cause analysis of the 2025 revenue decline and use coupon redemption data — 891 total — to assess whether discount-driven strategies are effectively retaining customers or simply attracting one-time buyers.

Business Question 3: Is Super Mart's sales performance evenly distributed across the week, or are there structural gaps to address?

The Best Sales Days chart reveals that Monday and Tuesday consistently lead in sales volume, with Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday performing at a moderate level. Saturday and Sunday show the lowest sales activity across the week. This pattern suggests that Super Mart's customer base is largely weekday-driven, which may reflect the nature of the products sold — office furniture and electronics such as Chair, Printer, Laptop, Desk, and Tablet, which are predominantly purchased for professional or work-related use. It is recommended that Super Mart design weekend-specific promotions or bundle offers targeting home-use scenarios to activate the dormant weekend customer segment and reduce the weekday dependency in its revenue structure.